Dear Mr. Chairman:

I am writing on behalf of the Investment Company Institute¹ to express our strong support for the Bush Administration's proposed FY 2005 budget for the Securities and Exchange Commission. The $913 million request is a significant increase over the record amount appropriated for the current fiscal year and is essential for the SEC to continue effective regulatory oversight and investor protection initiatives.

The increased funding for the SEC is especially important for the continued regulatory oversight of the mutual fund industry by the agency's Division of Investment Management. The many responsibilities of the Division, including developing appropriate initiatives in response to certain abuses within the fund industry, will require additional resources to ensure a complete and thorough understanding of the issues and an appropriate regulatory response. Increased funding is essential for the Office of Compliance Inspections and Examinations as well to permit them to successfully carry out their inspection duties with respect to mutual funds.

The Institute and mutual funds have a long history of strongly supporting increased resources for the SEC. It is more important now than ever that the SEC be provided with the funding and staffing it needs to fulfill its mission of protecting the nation's investors, including the 91.2 million Americans who own mutual funds.

Accordingly, we urge you to support the Bush Administration's FY 2005 budget request for the SEC.

Sincerely,

Matthew P. Fink
